Washington, D.C. Monument Applied Leadership Experience

Participants will serve as President Abraham Lincoln’s Cabinet as he considers issuing the Emancipation Proclamation. Next, the group will act as Dr. Martin Luther King’s advisors as he determines how to start the Civil Rights Movement, where to start the movement, and key strategic messages. Finally, the participants will serve with First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt as she redefines the role she assumes as her husband becomes the President of the United States.

This session is facilitated by ASU’s Ambassador in Residence, Ambassador Michael Polt and U.S. Army Lieutenant General Ben Freakley, ASU Professor of Practice for Leadership.

Seating will be limited, register today!
